Seven-a
 What number is this to?
 Seven-a
 Okay, don't get excited man,
 it's 'cause I'm short, I know.

Verse 1:
-----

                  G                                  Am
 Oh, I could hide 'neath the wings
                   Bm                                  C
 Of the bluebird as it sings
                   G                          Em                          Am          D7
 The six-o'clock alarm would never ring

 Wash the sleep out of my eyes
                   G                  Em                  Am          D7                  G
 My shaving razor's cold and it stings

Chorus:

                  G                                  Am
 You once thought of me

 As a white knight on a steed
                   G                          Em
 Now you know how happy
                   Am          D7
 Life can be
                   G                                  Am
 And our good times start and end
                   Bm                                  C
 Without dollar one to spend
                   G          Em          Am          D7                  G
 But how much baby do we really need

Chorus: (4 times)

"Daydream Believer" is a song composed by American songwriter John Stewart, shortly before he left the Kingston Trio. It was originally recorded by the Monkees, with Davy Jones singing the lead. The single reached No. 1 on the U.S. Billboard Hot 100 chart in December 1967, remaining there for four weeks, and peaked at No. 5 in the UK Singles Chart. It was the Monkees' last No. 1 hit in the U.S.

In 1979, "Daydream Believer" was recorded by Canadian singer Anne Murray, whose version reached No. 3 on the U.S. country singles chart and No. 12 on the Billboard Hot 100. The song has been recorded by others, including a 1971 version by Stewart himself.
